The incredible West Side property combines old-world architectural style with modern luxury, like this stunning pool, concertina doors and glass-balustraded wraparound balcony

This Tudor-style mansion on the West Side of Vancouver is, at $38 million, currently the most expensive residential real estate listing in the city. The 10,000-square-foot home on a 4.25 acre lot is also the city's largest estate property. And following its spectacular interior and exterior restoration by local company Marino General Contracting, "The Gables" is arguably Vancouver's most stunning mansion.

The project has earned Marino GC four nominations in three categories in the upcoming Georgie Awards: Best Renovation $800,000 and Over, Best Outdoor Living Space, and Renovator of the Year.

Built in 1929 for the President of BC Electric, Vancouver's largest estate property was in dire need of extensive renovations and restorations.

Company owner Joe Marino and his team restored the heritage property, hiring artists to recondition original crown mouldings, installing in-floor radiant heating from the basement level to protect the original main-level flooring, and restoring the grounds to their original grandeur.

Check out the images in the photo gallery above for more details and to see the spectacular finished results.

Joe Marino and his expert construction team have been serving the West Side of Vancouver for 27 years. For more information about Marino General Contracting and to connect via social media, follow the links below.

Gorgeous. A beautiful renovation and stunning interior design work too. Too bad the designer is not mentioned.
