LILJEHOLMENS

Stearin candles made in Sweden since 1839

Sweden's candle maker since 1839

Liljeholmens was founded in Stockholm in 1839 and has been a Purveyor to the Swedish Royal Court since 1893. Today every candle is made at its factory in Oskarshamn, in southern Sweden, by what it describes as the world's largest maker of stearin candles.

The candles are 100% stearin, made from renewable raw materials with no palm oil, and carry the Nordic Swan Ecolabel, which sets limits on soot and harmful substances. Christina dipped tapers and Lina and Prisma color-through tapers come in soft, seasonal colors, alongside chime candles, tealights and Advent candles.

Kanalljus

Swedish channel candles

A Swedish classic. Channels molded into the sides draw off excess stearin, so the candles burn clean and drip-free, which is why they're used for Lucia processions, in churches and in restaurants as well as at home. The foot fits most candlesticks.

7⅞ in (20 cm) tall · burns about 7 hours

Prisma Color-Through Tall Tapers

Octagonal, faceted tapers

Tall tapers with eight crisp sides that catch the light. 100% stearin, made in Sweden.
