THE FMCG CASE STUDY COLLECTION

Rewarding results, for remarkable brands

SICHER DIR JETZT DEIN ABENTEUER

THE FMCG CASE STUDY COLLECTION

In FMCG, promotions too often fall into the trap of discounts. They move stock in the short term but eat away at brand equity, margin, and long-term loyalty. At TLC Worldwide, we believe there's a smarter way.

This collection of case studies showcases how some of the world's most iconic brands - from Diageo and Ferrero to Birds Eye, Walkers, and Yakult - are breaking free from the race to the bottom. By pairing powerful storytelling with high-perceived-value rewards, they've turned everyday purchases into extraordinary experiences. Promotions that not only sold more product but also deepened emotional connections, secured retailer support, and built lasting brand equity.

Each story is proof that when brands invest in story-telling and experiences, they don't just win at shelf, they win in hearts and minds.

Diageo: “Action Adventure – Time to Live Boldly”

Driving Sales, Shelf Standout, and a New Generation of Whisky Lovers

The Challenge:

How do you make heritage whisky brands feel modern and exciting to connect with a new generation of consumers - without discounting or compromising image?

The TLC Approach:

For the third consecutive year, Diageo Germany ran a multi-brand promotion across ALDI and Lidl featuring brands like Johnnie Walker, Talisker and Singleton. TLC conceived the Time to Live Boldly promotion; with every bottle purchased unlocking a free adrenaline experience from TLC’s national network of activities like zip-lining, rock climbing, indoor surfing or bungee jumping. The campaign tapped into Diageo’s “live boldly” positioning - every purchase unlocked a free €45 adventure reward and entry into a grand prize draw for a weekend skydiving or helicopter getaway. The campaign reframed whisky as the “spirit of adventure,” appealing to a younger, thrill-seeking audience.

Birds Eye: “From Meal Times to Fun Times”

Protecting Premium Positioning and Winning Families in a Cost-of-Living Crisis

The Challenge:

When household budgets tighten, even the most loyal customers can be tempted to trade down to own-label. Birds Eye, a brand built on quality, trust, and wholesome family appeal, faced exactly that challenge during the height of the cost-of-living crisis. While competitors leaned into price cuts, Birds Eye needed a smarter way to protect its premium positioning, keep shoppers loyal, and reinforce the value it brings to family mealtimes.

The opportunity? Tap into the insight that many families were cutting back on extracurricular activities and find a way to give that joy back.

The TLC Approach:

TLC and Birds Eye teamed up to launch From Meal Times to Fun Times - a feel-good, value-added promotion designed to put smiles back on family calendars. Every qualifying purchase unlocked a free family sport or activity worth £20 or more, from swimming sessions to mini-golf, tennis courts to climbing walls.

Key to the strategy was ease and visibility:

- Off-pack activation, communicated entirely via impactful POS in Asda stores, meant no changes to packaging or production timelines.
- A clear, uplifting value message spoke directly to parents making tough spending decisions.
- A seamless online redemption journey made claiming rewards simple, keeping engagement high.

By connecting Birds Eye’s mealtime moments with out-of-home family fun, the campaign went beyond functional product benefits to deliver something truly memorable - giving customers something extra when they needed it most.

The Impact:

Birds Eye didn’t just feed families, it gave them more to smile about, proving that in tough times, true value isn’t always found on a discount sticker.

Ferrero: “Travel is an Amazing Sport” – Boosting Duty-Free Sell-Out During the Olympics

Boosting Duty-Free Sell-Out During the Olympics

The Challenge:

How do you increase sell-out and average spend in the Duty-Free channel during the Olympics while engaging a diverse, international traveller audience?

The TLC Approach:

Ferrero set out to reward a different kind of athlete – travellers – during the Olympics. Across airport retail, shoppers spending €20 on Ferrero products received €20 travel credits to book hotel stays via TLC’s global travel platform. The mechanic was simple to communicate, instantly valuable, cumulative, and usable worldwide – making it highly appealing to a broad mix of travellers from families with school-age children to business passengers.

By offering a reward that aligned with the travel environment and delivered genuine value, the campaign created a compelling reason for travellers to buy now and buy more. Crucially, this approach also strengthened retailer relationships in the duty-free channel, providing a differentiated offer that drove footfall, increased basket size, and secured prime space at high-traffic airports

Flavour Meets Purpose in a Nationwide Dining Partnership

The Challenge:

Off the back of the hugely successful first Taste Icons campaign, celebrating hero cuisine flavours in partnership with well-known restaurant chains, Walkers faced a pivotal moment. After a turbulent year for the hospitality industry, the brand wanted to turn its attention to local restaurants: the independents that had kept the nation fed and comforted through challenging times. The mission was to build on the brand’s flavour-driven equity, drive significant sales, and use its platform to give something back to communities across the UK.

The Impact:

The TLC Approach:

The creative tapped into three powerful motivators:

- Our love of takeaways – the indulgence that never loses its appeal.
- Our justification to treat ourselves – the small luxuries that brighten the week.
- Our passion for supporting local – a post-pandemic priority for many households.

From POS in major retailers to on-pack callouts and PR activity, the campaign told a story bigger than crisps: it was about flavour that fuels communities. Walkers positioned itself not just as a snack brand, but as a champion for the local dining scene - aligning perfectly with its brand purpose while creating a compelling shopper offer.

Herbal Essences: “Free Haircut With Purchase”

Creating an Ownable, High-Value Reward to Drive Trial and Retail Visibility

The Challenge:

In the competitive personal care category, holding onto premium shelf space in major retailers like Tesco is as much about retailer confidence as it is about consumer demand. The brand faced two pressing challenges:

1. Guarantee display in key retailers and prevent the delisting of certain SKUs.
2. Drive trial with an incentive that would be instantly desirable, completely ownable, and true to the brand's identity.

The target audience - style-conscious young women who live life to the fullest but shop with a keen eye on value - were a perfect match for a promotion that combined beauty, indulgence, and a little everyday luxury.

The TLC Approach:

FTLC created the UK's first nationwide bespoke Professional Hair Network, connecting the brand to a handpicked selection of quality salons across the country. The mechanic was as simple as it was irresistible:

- Buy any 2 bottles of the product and claim a free professional haircut worth £30-£50 at a participating salon.
- Redeem through a quick, mobile-friendly journey that matched the lifestyle and expectations of the audience.
- Supported by impactful in-store POS, ensuring the offer was visible at the moment of decision.

The reward was high in perceived value, perfectly on-brand, and impossible for competitors to replicate without infringing on the brand's unique positioning. A beauty experience curated to make customers feel pampered, confident, and more loyal to the brand.

CASE STUDY:

Yakult: “Wellbeing Rewards”

Blending Science, Wellness, and Play to Win New Customers

The Challenge:

In the crowded functional dairy category, Yakult has long been known for its scientific credentials and proven health benefits. But to keep growing, the brand needed to achieve two things at once:

- Drive penetration by attracting new shoppers into the brand.
- Increase purchase frequency among its loyal customer base.

At the heart of the brief was a simple mandate, bring Yakult’s scientific positioning to life in a way that was engaging, relevant, and appealing to consumers who put wellbeing at the centre of their lives.

The TLC Approach:

TLC designed a campaign that transformed every Yakult SKU into a gateway to better health and more active living. With every purchase, shoppers could claim a free wellness or sport session from a curated network of activities - ranging from yoga and pilates to swimming and fitness classes - chosen to appeal across all ages and lifestyles.

The experience didn’t stop at the reward. To deepen engagement and bring Yakult’s educational ethos to the fore, the redemption journey included:

- A fun, interactive quiz linking wellness tips to Yakult’s science-led benefits.
- Gamified elements to keep users engaged, resulting in dramatically higher dwell times on the campaign website.
- A fully digital redemption flow for instant access

By delivering value beyond the bottle, Yakult positioned itself as an active partner in its consumers’ wellbeing journeys, not just a product on the shelf.

The Impact:

Yakult proved that when brand purpose and consumer passion align, the result is not just incremental sales, but a stronger, more loyal community of brand advocates.

Kinder

Kinder: “Make a Wish” 50th Anniversary

Turning Childhood Dreams Into Real-Life Adventures

The Challenge:

For its 50th anniversary, Kinder wanted more than a celebration, it wanted to reaffirm the deep emotional bond it shares with families. The brief was threefold:

- Create an unforgettable campaign rooted in joy, imagination, and togetherness.
- Drive measurable uplifts in both sell-in and sell-out.
- Deliver an exclusive offer that was as magical and heartfelt as Kinder’s own brand story.

The audience was clear: families with children of all ages, united by the universal truth that every child dreams of what they’ll be when they grow up.

The TLC Approach:

TLC and Kinder co-created Make a Wish, a campaign that gave children the chance to dream big and live those dreams for a day. Every qualifying purchase became a ticket to possibility:

Reckitt Benckiser: “Walmart Wellness”

Driving Sales Through Health, Recovery, and Convenience

The Challenge:

Seasonal illness periods present both a challenge and an opportunity for health brands. Reckitt Benckiser wanted to seize that moment in Walmart stores - boosting sales of Mucinex, Delsym, Airborne, and Digestive Advantage - while delivering something of real value to customers concerned about their health.

The objectives were clear:

- Incentivise seasonal health product purchases without resorting to price cuts.
- Position Reckitt brands as trusted partners in health and recovery.
- Offer a reward that was highly relevant, instantly accessible, and easy to use for Walmart’s broad shopper base.

The TLC Approach:

TLC crafted a promotion that blurred the line between retail and real-world care. Every purchase of the participating products came with a FREE doctor’s consultation worth $80 with a certified doctor via Doctor on Demand.

By making healthcare feel both accessible and rewarding, Reckitt positioned its brands as more than a transactional purchase, they became part of the solution to seasonal wellness.

Frito Lay: “Snack More, Win More”

Securing Secondary Space and Driving Sell-Through

The Challenge:

In a crowded snack aisle dominated by price promos and private labels, how do you win Gen Z attention, secure prime secondary space, and turn that visibility into repeat purchase behaviour?

The TLC Approach

We brought the “TikTok energy” to snacks - delivering instant gratification in every pack and giving retailers a differentiated story to back with premium placement. Starting in the Philippines with the Everybody Wins concept - a guaranteed feel-good reward in every pack. Shoppers uncovered mobile-first, social-shareable rewards such as movie tickets, travel credits and entertainment passes from our exclusive rewards network; plus the chance to win an 8-day resort stay.

The buzz and high-perceived-value rewards gave retailers confidence to offer end-caps and secondary placements, knowing the promotion would draw traffic and grow basket size.

Following its success, the campaign evolved into Snack More, Win More in Singapore and Malaysia, using receipt validation to claim rewards and maintaining the same immediate-satisfaction appeal, while ensuring visibility across both shelf and in-store touchpoints.
